

THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN PARENT'S SOCIAL SUPPORT TO THE TEENAGER WITH THE DEVELOPMENT OF PSYCHOSOCIAL OF TEENAGERS IN SMK MA'ARIF 1 SALAM MAGELANG

Okta Nur Kholifah¹, Sulistiyawati², Brune Indah Yulitasari³
Mantel.banget@gmail.com

ABSTRACT

Background: Teenagers in growth age are expected to pass the task of its development. It will form a normal psychosocial development like judge themselves objectively, plan his/her future, take decision, liked her/his self and do not have a diversion developments such as antisocial behavior, disliked him/herself, difficult to take decisions, has no interest. Parent's social support of teenager has a role and influence in shaping identity in teenagers. Parent's social support can be given such as emotional support, instrumental, awards, and informative.

Objective: to identity the relationship between parents' social supports of teenager with teenager's psychosocial development in SMK Ma'arif 1 Salam, Magelang.

Methods: Design in this research using descriptive analytic by approach cross sectional. The sample in a cluster random sampling of respondents are 81 students, Analysis bivariate which is used correlation is from Kendall Tau. Research Instrument uses questionnaires.

Results: the results showed that the majority of respondents is a male 81 (100%), age 16 years 11 (13,7%) respondents and 17 years 70 (86,4%) respondents, the parent's social supports of teenager the high majority 50 (61,7%), and psychosocial development in the majority enough 51. (63%). Analysis test correlation obtained p value ($p < 0,05 >$)

Conclusion: there was a relationship between parent's social supports of teenager with psychosocial development capability of teenager in SMK Ma'arif 1 Salam, Magelang.

Keywords: Teenagers, parent's social support, psychosocial Development

¹ Student of Nursing science Major Alma Ata University of Yogyakarta

² Lecturer of Nursing science Major Alma Ata University of Yogyakarta

³ Lecturer Nursing science Major Alma Ata University of Yogyakarta